Wallpaper iphone 7 ios 10

Hidden in the beta version of iOS 10.2 that Apple has just released are a handful of new wallpapers. Regular users won't dare them until Apple officially releases iOS 10.2, sometimes next month. But you're not a regular user, which is why you can bask in the glory of a new background right now. DON'T MISS: How to install iOS 10.2 beta on your iPhone right now without a developer account The three new wallpapers might seem familiar to you, since they have already been featured in iPhone 7 ads. But the wallpapers have not yet been downloadable for regular users. Black wallpapers work particularly well on the new black iPhones and Jet Black, although make sure you don't park a blue app in the middle of the background or you'll never find it. In addition to the new wallpapers, iOS 10.2 has mostly brought new bug fixes and new emojis to iOS. In total, Unicode 9.0 includes 72 new emojis, including 22 new Smiley and People emojis and 18 new Food and Drink emojis. iOS 10.2 was released as a beta for developers yesterday and as a public beta today. If you are already on one of the beta programs, it is available as an over-the-air software update. Just go to Settings -> General -> Software Update. Make sure you're connected to power and have a previous backup of your device, for each time. High res versions of all wallpapers are available for download below. While the iPhone 7 and 7 Plus are aesthetically very similar to their predecessors iPhone 6S and 6S Plus, they still have a plethora of new features and updated specs to offer. The iPhone 7 and 7 Plus will work on the latest iteration of the operating system, i.e. iOS 10 and brings some significant changes such as the new pressure-sensitive home button, the 12MP main camera capable of capturing 2160p shots, a faster processor, 2GB of RAM, improved battery performance and a surprisingly released function, namely the removal of the headphone jack. The iPhone 7 and 7 Plus are technically dust and water resistant as they are available with IP67 certification, meaning it can survive in water of 1 meter for 30 minutes. The iPhone 7 may not be the first waterproof phone, but they will be the first smartphones to abandon the traditional wireless AirPods headphone jack. The phone was launched in 5 color variants (silver, gold, rose gold, black and jet black) with 3 storage options (32 GB, 128 GB and 256 GB).
